Course Description and Course Note:	MUSIC 148 is a hands-on course for the study, rehearsal, and performance of literature for small performing ensembles. Students develop performance skills and learn different literature every semester with the ensembles in genres including traditional classical, jazz, opera, world music, and contemporary music. The choice of ensemble is based on each student's identified area of performance study. Note: An audition is required. Please contact the instructor before the first class. Students must provide an appropriate instrument. May be taken 4 times for credit.
